

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF HEALTH AND SOCIAL SERVICES

SOLANO COUNTY

The Place for People to Live, Learn, Work and Play.

$144,432 – $175,558 DOQ/DOE, plus longevity pay

Solano County is seeking an Assistant Director of Health and Social Services. We are seeking a candidate with a solid background implementing a shared department vision; a successful track record of overseeing special projects affecting our department, organization and community; leadership experience overseeing organizational administration and personnel; overseeing local programs and services in California Health and Social Services agency. This position is the second in command overseeing a comprehensive super agency including public health, behavioral/mental health and social service programs with over 1,200 employees. Joining Solano County is an opportunity to maintain the great work we are currently doing and implement new initiatives that touch the lives and futures of children, families and seniors in our community.

HEALTH AND SOCIAL SERVICES – the Organization and Culture

Our organization is nationally recognized for its programs and known across the state as leaders in partnering with our community and public service leaders. As the only countywide general purpose local government, the County is in a unique position to facilitate and coordinate with cities, school districts, special districts and other agencies. The County provides a variety of services aimed at improving the lives of children, adults, families and the elderly. The department's leadership strives to put individualities aside and operate as a collaborative team who are committed to developing a healthy, productive organization that prides itself on providing excellent services. Through countywide planning and coordination, the County's role in health care includes providing social and clinical services and health care assistance, alcohol, drug and mental health services, dental services and protecting the community from public health threats.

Over the years the County has integrated services to form one single department, Health and Social Services, which today is the largest department in the county, with an operating budget of $285 million, a senior and executive management staff of seven and approximately 1,200 employees working in multiple office locations across the county. The department delivers services and programs to residents in seven cities and is organized in five divisions: Administration, Social Services, Public Health Services, Behavioral Health Services, and Public Assistance Programs that support the following core services/programs:

- Administration
- Child Welfare Services
- Older and Disabled Adult Services
- Employment and Eligibility
- Public Authority (for in-home supportive services)
- Substance Abuse
- Mental Health
- Family Health Services
- Public Health
- Dental
- Special Investigations Bureau and Welfare Administration
